

The Blunderer

[...] LEL. I would keep it carefully from anybody else, but it can be of no consequence to you, and you will not mention it to any one. Without doubt, that bill can be nothing else but an invention of the servant I spoke of; nothing but some cunning plot he has hatched to place into my hands a certain gipsy girl, with whom I am smitten, and of whom I wish to obtain possession. I have already attempted this several times, but until now in vain. AND. What is her name? LEL. Celia. AND. What do you say? Had you but mentioned this, no doubt I should have saved you all the trouble this project costs you. LEL. How so? Do you know her? AND. It is I who just now bought her from her master. LEL. You surprise me! AND. As the state of her health did not allow her to leave this town, I just took these apartments for her; and I am very glad that on this occasion you have acquainted me with your intentions. LEL. What! shall I obtain the happiness I hope for by your means? Could you? AND. (Knocks at the door). You shall be satisfied immediately. LEL. What can I say to you? And what thanks? AND. No, give me none; I will have none. SCENE VII. LELIO, ANDRES, MASCARILLE. [...].
