

Yellow Cap And other Fairy Tales

Several great fairy tales for bedtime reading. Yellow Cap, Rumpty-Dudget, Calladon, and Theeda, all written by Julian Hawthorne. This edition has been carefully set and updated in appearance and spelling to be pleasing to modern eyes.

---Excerpt--- Heres an odd fish! cried one, pointing with his finger. Hes lost his way trying to swim on land! laughed another. A scaly fellow-lets skin him and clean him! called out a third. How much are you a pound, fish? asked a fourth. Bah! hes stale already! shouted a fifth. Whats that in his right fin?-a human cap and feather, I declare! exclaimed a sixth. Take it away from him! cried several together; and one spurred his horse towards the young man and reached forth the point of his lance, as if to catch the cap from Raymonds hand. But Raymond, though a minute ago he was almost ready to throw the cap away, was not going to submit to being robbed of it. He caught the lance by the shaft and jerked it from the pages grasp; then, putting the cap firmly on his head, he stood on his guard boldly, with the weapon advanced.
