They play the bears and foxs part; Now rob by force, now steal with art. They sometimes in the senate bray; Or, changd again to beasts of prey, Down from the lion to the ape, Practise the frauds of evry fliape. So said. Upon the God he flies, In cords the struggling captive ties. Quindi a lui volse il discorso, E cosi gli prese a dire: Gia che piu trovar soccorso, Ne piu quinci puoi fuggire, Confessar ben dei, che questa Tua grand arte or vinta resta. Usa pur forza, e sorpresa, O qual v ha mezzo piu strano, Ch uscir fuor ne sapra illesa L arte al fin del Cortigiano. Laccio il pie mai non gli stringe; Mente ogn or sua lingua, e finge. Now, Proteus, now (to truth compelld) Speak, and confess thy art excelld. Use strength, surprise, or what you will, The courtier finds evasions still: Not to be bound by any ties, And never forcd to leave his lies. FAVOLA XXII. Li Mastini. C O L O R che fi frammischian ne le risse, Fuor n escon spesso insanguinati il naso. Cerco Martin di vero sangue Inglese Il combatter piu caro avea del pane, Qual or vedea per far d un osso acquisto Ringhiar de Cani, bramava aver parte Ne la quistione, e sua far la battaglia: E trovo di sovente ch a frammettersi, Mentre tra loro due facean la rissa, Ne conseguiva il desiato intento. Il medesmo del suo gir zoppicando Si facea gloria, e sparse in su la faccia Le cicatrici si vedean d onore. Su dogni membro qualche taglio appare; E le molte battaglie, in cui trovossi, Le dianzi lunghe orecchie, avean gia mozze. Com egli un giorno venne a udir da lunge Due Can nemici gia azzuffati insieme In strepito...
