

(Horror Classics Library) Frankenstein/Dracula: Volume 1 In The Classic Horror Collection

I have read your letters to Miss Lucy. Forgive me, but I had to begin to inquire somewhere, and there was none to ask. I know that you were with her at Whitby. She sometimes kept a diary you need not look surprised, Madam Mina; it was begun after you had left, and was in imitation of you and in that diary she traces by inference certain things to a sleep-walking in which she puts down that you saved her. In great perplexity then I come to you, and ask you out of your so much kindness to tell me all of it that you can remember. I can tell you, I think, Dr. Van Helsing, all about it. Ah, then you have good memory for facts, for details? It is not always so with young ladies. No, doctor, but I wrote it all down at the time. I can show it to you if you like. Oh, Madam Mina, I will be grateful; you will do me much favour. I could not resist the temptation of mystifying him a bit I suppose it is some of the taste of the original apple that remains still in our mouths so I handed him the shorthand diary. He took it with a grateful bow, and said: May I read it? If you wish, I answered as demurely as I could. He opened it, and for an instant his face fell. Then he stood up and bowed. Oh, you so clever woman! he said. I knew long that Mr. Jonathan was a man of much thankfulness; but see, his wife have all the good things. And will you not so much honour me and so help me as to read it for me? Alas! I know not the shorthand. By this time my little joke was over, and I was almost ashamed; so I took the typewritten copy from my workbasket and handed it to him. Forgive me, I said: I could not help it; but I had been thinking that it was of dear Lucy that you wished to ask, and so that you might not have time to wait not on my account, but because I know your time must be precious I have written it out on the typewriter for you. He took it and his eyes glistened. You are so good, he said. And may I read it now? I may want to ask you some things when I have read. By all means, I said, read it over whilst I order lunch; and then you can ask me questions whilst we eat. He bowed and settled himself in a chair with his back to the light, and became absorbed in the papers, whilst I went to see after lunch chiefly in order that he might not be disturbed. When I came back, I found him walking hurriedly up and down the room, his face all ablaze with excitement. He rushed up to me and took me by both hands.
