

The Scarecrow of Oz

Capn Bill, a sailor with a wooden peg-leg, and his friend, a little girl named Trot, set out from California on a calm day for a short ride in their row-boat. The calm day suddenly turns dark and stormy and Capn Bill and Trot are washed overboard and are carried by mermaids (referred to but not seen) to a cave where they meet an ostrich-like flying creature called an Ork. Flying on the Ork's back, the Ork, Capn Bill and Trot strain to arrive at an island where a grim man calling himself Pessim the Observer points out that the Ork should not have eaten the light lavender berries growing on the island. The light lavender berries cause a person to shrink, and the dark purple berries cause a person to grow. Once the Ork resumes normal size, Capn Bill and Trot leave the island to escape the Observer's negative attitude which drove the people in his homeland to exile him here in the first place. To reduce the load on the Ork, Capn Bill and Trot each eat a light lavender berry so they are small enough to carry in Trot's bonnet.
